A SECRET MEETING

National League to Get Together in a Few Days.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS TO CONSIDER

for by the Players.

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS

There is every reason to believe that the National League will hold another secret session within a day or two. Many of the magnates thing the American League and the players have held the center of the stage long enough.

The National League held a secret session in New York about a month ago, at which the principal business was to talk over the ways and means of getting Johnny McGraw to desert the American League. Failing in that, the magnate drew up Frank De Haas Robison's famous futile attack on the Baltimore manager. Now the league magnates must consider the attitude of the Players' Protective Association and take action thereon and also the playing schedule.

President Charles Zimmer of the Players' Protective Association recently sent a letter to each of the magnates, conveying the action of the players at the Cleveland meeting. Clark Griffith, the Chicago twirler and a leader among the players, is quoted as "The members of our union have all promised to stick together, and we will not sign contracts until our demands are granted. At the Cleveland meeting forty-seven members answered roll call, and all declared their loyalty. Besides, letters were received from nearly all the others saying they were with the movement to a finish and would

Attitude of Magnates.

It is now understood that assurances have been received from five of the eight presidents of National League clubs that they are willing to meet a committee of the players in consultation at the next meeting of the organization, to be held in New York city. The magnates insist, however, that they will not consider any business to be transacted through a third person. Whatever the players desire they must make known personally by a committee of their association and not through the medium of a lawyer. The magnates insist that there is absolutely no necessity for calling in legal interference, and, furthermore, add legal interference, and, furthermore, add that they do not propose, under any circumstances, to be coerced into granting anything that will shake the stability of their property rights.

It is probable in the event of a conference being held that the league magnates will consent to abolish the farming plan, as the American League has done, and will agree not to transfer players without their constitutions.

not to transfer players without their con-sent. There is no reason to believe that any alteration of consequence will be made in the reserve rule, to which the smaller cities tenaciously cling, as it permits them to retain an equality of playing strength as compared with the large cities. This outline of probable action is given on authority, and clearly demonstrates that the major league magnates have not come to a realizing point of the situation. What they will do or not do, matters little. If they want to retain their organization in compact form, they will have to give their players what they want or lose fully one-half of them. As to the position taken by the league that they will not treat with the legal adviser of the players' association, if probable that there will be no conference as a resolution was passed at the Cleve-land meeting direction the plane. land meeting direction the players' or-ganization to stand by Lawyer Taylor in the expected negotiations.

New Association President.

Charles B. Power of Pittsburg, a prominent base ball and newspaper man, last night accepted the presidency of the new American Association, after conferring at Indianapolis yesterday with W. H. Watkins and John T. Brush.

While Mr. Power was in Indianapolis a wire vote was taken upon the proposition of his presidency, and he was unanimously indersed. He was then offered the position, and took the matter under advisement Upon arriving in Pittsburg last night Mr Power telegraphed his acceptance of the presidency, at the same time telegraphing his resignation as head of the Interstate League, in which he has been president for two years. He will also resign as sporting said:

"I shall establish headquarters in Pitts-burg immediately, where they will remain for the season at least. I am satisfied that the American Association has not only the means behind it, but will be a sure go.

McGraw in Philadelphia. Manager McGraw of the Baltimore American League team was in Philadelphia yesterday. While there he called upon Connie Mack of the new Philadelphia club. The two brand new magnates were in conference for several hours, after which Mr.

Mack left the city. It was reported that Mr. McGraw also went away with Mack but the destination of the pair could not be earned last night.

McGraw's visit to Philadelphia and the departure a few hours later of the Philadel-phia manager and himself is looked upon as being very significant, especially in view of the fact that Manager Hugh Duffy of the Milwaukee club and Jimmy Collins of the Boston National League club were there on Wednesday.

Base Ball Magnates Conferring. A. J. Reach, president of the Philadelphia National League Club, called on President Hart in his office at Chicago yesterday. While the object of Mr. Reach's visit could not be ascertained it was learned that he had been in the city for two days previous and had a conference with President Johnson of the American League before seeing Mr. Hart. All parties concerned were reticent con-cerning Mr. Reach's visit to Chicago, which has given rise to all kinds of surmises. The supposition that it has to do with a possible compromise between the war-ring base ball factions was denied by Pres-

Mr. Reach himself insisted that his private business affairs were the chief reason for his going to Chicago, and that his calls on the base ball magnates were wholly of a
